OF STATE BANK
IS UNDER FIREAccountant So Qualifies State-

mittee Not Intended to Deceive, Witness Claims

Testimony given before the senate committee with regard to reserve of the Bank of North Dakota by M. W. Thatcher, accountant and head of the Equitable Audit company, was under fire before the house investigating committee today.

Thatcher and F. W. Cathro were the only two witnesses. It was said that the committee attorneys had been informed that O. E. Loftus, state examiner, who was absent when called yesterday, had gone to Minneapolis, would be back today and was making no effort to avoid testifying.

Thatcher was asked specifically about the large reserve he figured the bank had under the 1915 law. Thatcher admitted this was "a book-keeping reserve" he testified to—that he hadn't verified all the things necessary to make a complete statement.

Thatcher had testified before the senate committee that the bank had a reserve of $7,000,000, or several times its requirements. The cash reserve, he figured today, was $4,767, and under the 1915 law—should have had $1,123,000, or was shy $1,078,000 of the required amount. This did not take into account redemptions.

These redemptions, under the contention of the attorneys, could not be considered in a reserve unless they were in reserve banks approved by the state banking board, with limitations, including one that they should be banks in commercial centers where deposits could be easily acceptable.

In response to a statement from Attorney Murphy that "what I am trying to make out is that you ought not to have given that testimony before the senate committee" Thatcher replied that the testimony before the senate committee did not represent "his judgment" but figures were prepared in answer to questions before the senate committee.

"You told that committee to believe that the Bank of North Dakota had a reserve actually of over $7,000,000," queried Murphy.

"I didn't want them to think so," replied Thatcher.

Mr. Murphy asked the witness if, under a strict interpretation of the 1915 law, the Bank of North Dakota lacked any reserve at all.

Law

The first three bills signed by Governor Frazier were to be messaged to the senate today. They are senate bills Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

Senate bill No. 1 permits an assistant attorney-general to complete private practice he was engaged in at the time of appointment, and allows states attorneys to defend criminal cases outside their districts. It was introduced by McNair.

Senate bill No. 2 relates to care and release of feeble-minded persons from state institutions. It was introduced by Murphy.

Senate bill No. 3 amends the law regarding concentrated feeding stuff labelling and reports to the regulatory division of the Agricultural college. It was introduced by Rusch.

These were the first three measures presented to the governor. No measures have been vetoed.

LEGION MAKING GREAT HEADWAY
IN LEGISLATIONAlbert E. Sheets Returned from Washington Where He Represented StateMCCUMBER HOLDS POWERAs Second Oldest Senator and Member of Finance Committee Controls Bills

Prospects for legislation by the national congress asked by the American Legion are good, according to Albert E. Sheets, Jr., who has returned from Washington where he went to attend a meeting of the national executive committee of the Legion, delegated by National Committee C. L. Dawson to act as North Dakota member of the committee.

"The purpose of the meeting was to influence congress to pass legislation at the present session which the Legion considers cannot wait until the next session, principally legislation in behalf of disabled soldiers," said Mr. Sheets, discussing his trip.

"Senator McCumber, by reason of being the second oldest senator in Washington in point of service and ranking member of the finance committee, where the hospitalization and additional compensation or so-called bonus bills were being considered is the most influential man in Washington in soldier legislation. We were assured by Senator McCumber that he would do everything in his power to see that both bills pass."

Hospital Bill Passes.

Mr. Sheets said that before he returned the hospitalization bill had passed, carrying $15,000,000 for hospitals for disabled soldiers. Senator McCumber told Mr. Sheets that he believed the additional compensation bill would be passed at this session with a delay of payment or at the next session with provision for immediate payment.

"The plan suggested by the Legion for the consolidation of the United States Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the U. S. health service and the vocational training bureau into one department, with sub-departments in various parts of the United States, by reason of lack of time will not pass at the present session," said Mr. Sheets, "but some bill embodying these features will be passed immediately upon reconvention of congress in special session. It is the opinion of all members of congress with whom I talked that this is absolutely necessary before the confusion and incompetency in these soldier relief agencies can be overcome."

The five million dollar memorial fund tendered by the Knights of Columbus was not accepted, he said, and the Legion committee was named to confer with officers of the order to find out if they were willing to make a tender of the money without any conditions attached.

Taken Up Bismarck Case.

"Due to the inability of the various bureaus handling relief for disabled soldiers to meet the situation and pending such time as congress shall consolidate and reorganize them," I was able to obtain the assistance of the national executive committee in establishing what is known as a service bureau which will take up and present to government agencies the most urgent cases of disabled soldiers. The united support of the Legion may now be obtained for any disabled soldiers by writing the facts to National Adjutant Lemuel Bollos, Washington, D. C., who was appointed chairman of the service commission."

Mr. Sheets also took up the case of James Monahan, Bismarck boy, who was wounded and who served in several major engagements, and who had been unable to get relief from the government. He said that Senator McCumber had taken up the case.

WOULD KEEP MINN. PAPERS
MUM ON BANKSSenator Devold, Socialist, Introduces Muzzling Bill in Senate

St. Paul, Feb. 18.—The amendment offered by Senator Devold, socialist, which would have prevented Minnesota papers publishing anything about bank failures, embezzlement, investigation or other matters derogatory to banks in or out of the state, has been killed by the Minnesota senate.

Senator Devold has always voted with the Nonpartisan members of the legislature and this motion was construed as an attempt to prevent any publicity in regard to the North Dakota bank situation.

ACTION NOT THEORY

Some of the arguments being used in the present controversy to save North Dakota from herself reminds one of Mark Twain's remark about the weather: "Everybody's talking about it and nobody's doing anything."

True there are some who have political expedients to offer which are no more nor less than Townleyism in a modified degree. The independents have got to get their fingers out of Townley's bait can if they expect to protect the state's integrity and restore stability.

Two million for the elevator and mill at Grand Forks is supreme folly. Drake took our loss off that now. A quarter of a million for the Drake toy mill and the Homebuilder's association is a further waste of public funds.

Better go down to defeat in another campaign battling for sound government and the total elimination of state socialism, than to pussyfoot on vital issues.

If the Independents want to perform a real service to the state, they will propose bills immediately repealing the entire industrial program and providing for the liquidation of the scraps on hand.

Some say what about the million the state has shot to the birds at Grand Forks?

Better let it stand there as a monument to the folly of state socialism than to pour two or three million more of public funds into it, just to try out one of the experiments that has been thoroughly discredited through recent investigation. The Grand Forks Mill and Elevator can be turned over through a plan of liquidation to some farmers co-operative society, completed by that agency and under competent management and private initiative be made a paying venture. If the Independents think under political control they can make the Drake or the Grand Forks institution profitable, even aside from the unsoundness of the theory of government ownership, they had better come out of their dream now.

A great co-operative movement is sweeping over the country under the auspices of the Farm Bureau. It is a protest against the follies practiced in many states and allied societies of trying to solve agrarian problems through government ownership, politically agrarian and manipulated. Farmers themselves are coming to realize that if they had contributed to their own co-operative societies the money Townley has drawn from them in increased taxes and special contributions for "The New Day," they could have had a string of mills and elevators across the state from Fargo to Beach and a line of packers plants reaching from Lisbon on the south to Minot on the north.

The Tribune suggests three planks in the program of the Independents.

J. Wallman of Regan, is one of the most aggressive boosters in the state for the National Wheat Growers' association, which he feels fills an important niche in the North Dakota farmers' world.

He recently received a letter from George E. Duls, one of the directors of the Kansas state organization, which gives some interesting facts in regard to the organization. Mr. Duls says:

"This organization now has a membership of over 150,000 in the wheat-growing states. We are organizing very rapidly. We have before us several plans but none of them were very definitely adopted. We decided that we would employ Aaron Sapiro of San Francisco, to advise us fully as to what plans would be the most suitable for our commodity. Our national secretary is now endeavoring to secure Mr. Sapiro to immediately furnish us plans for marketing."

WANT COST PLUS.

"The fundamental of our plan is to secure cost plus a reasonable profit on future wheat crops. It takes some little time to organize an association of this kind, and especially to do it on a safe basis. I am amazed at the work which has already been done in organization work."

Since this letter was written, it is understood, Mr. Sapiro has been secured by the organization and is working definite plans now.

McClusky, N. D., Feb. 18.—Reinhold Biesck has been taken into custody at Goodrich for the alleged shooting of his brother, Fred, following a card game. The victim is in a serious condition.

The brothers had been playing cards together with two of the evening boys until 10:30 Monday night. The visitors left for home at this time and Fred went to the barn with them to help him hitch up.

He came back and began to wash his hands when a shot rang out from the dining room and he fell to the floor.

The visitors heard the shot, returned to the house and found Fred and hurried him to the next farm house, notifying the sheriff and the doctor.

Held in Jail.

Reinhold is being held in the county jail at McClusky, waiting trial.

When asked why he shot his brother he is reported to have said that he didn't know himself. In some quarters it is believed that he was temporarily insane.

vides Basis of Legislation

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Farm legislation most generally sought this winter in central western farming states where legislatures are in session appears to follow the line of marketing and co-operative effort, according to a survey made by the Associated Press.

Education, protection from fraudulent speculation, improvement of farm finance and betterment of farm tenant conditions are other measures in which a widespread farming interest is manifest.

In several states a better organization of the state agricultural administration is sought. Better community protection through establishment of rural police or constabulary is asked in others.

Co-operative marketing organizations among producers, along lines already proven successful in the Minnesota Potato Exchange are projected in Minnesota. The proposed legislation was sponsored by Governor J. A. O. Preuss in his campaign last fall.

Ohio farmers ask increased appropriations for developing and encouraging the state marketing bureau to encourage co-operative buying and selling between farm producers and consumers' direct.

It is also proposed in Ohio that the state university establish a course for training leaders in organizing for co-operative buying and selling.

Kansas farmers seek a state market bureau that would furnish information on market conditions generally and act to some extent as a clearing house for orders for farm products. In Arkansas it is proposed to give the state agricultural commissioner authority to fix grades and standards of farm products, to enforce a uniform grading law, and generally to facilitate better marketing of farm products.

Among financial proposals a law is urged in Illinois for the organization of farm loan societies to loan money to farmers on long term first and second mortgages. Farm land credits and rural personal credits are asked in Iowa.

A law to permit establishment of banks by co-operating associations is sought in Kansas. Adequate appropriations for state educational institutions urged by farmers in a number of states. Indicate agricultural interest in education. Free text books in the common schools are called for in Oklahoma and elsewhere.

In Kansas, where farm tenantry has been much discussed, a law putting into operation an amendment to the state constitution adopted at the last election providing for state aid to farmers in buying farm homes is up. Legislation requiring a tenant to be reimbursed for permanent improvements made on the farm he occupies is advanced in Illinois.

Need of better rural protection since the advent of hard roads and the automobile has manifested itself, according to farmers. In Illinois, where a state constabulary has been endorsed, and in Ohio, where a modified rural police bill, using county sheriffs and constables as a nucleus is proposed.

BRINTON IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF PERJURY

J. W. Brinton was arrested today on a charge of perjury, the complaint being sworn to by F. W. Cathro, director-general of the Bank of North Dakota.

The warrant was served on Brinton by Sheriff Welch, and was returnable before Justice of the Peace W. S. Casselman. Brinton appeared asked continuance to get counsel, and his bond was fixed at $1,000, which he gave. The hearing will be held Feb. 21, at 10 A. M. J. W. Sullivan, of Mandan, an attorney for the house investigation committee, was asked by Brinton to be his attorney and will appear.

A. Anderson, assistant attorney general, appeared for the complainant. League sources said F. E. McCurdy, states attorney of Burleigh county, has refused to approve the complaint. Mr. McCurdy said that Joe Cogan came to his office late yesterday with the complaint and that the place for name of the complainant was blank. He expressed his opinion that none of the parties involved in the present investigation should be arrested until the investigations are finished, he said, and then if any parties appear guilty of violations they should be prosecuted regardless of which political side they are on.

He said he had been importuned to arrest some administration officials on charges growing out of the investigation and that he refused to take any action until after the investigations are finished, and that he took the same stand regarding Brinton. He told them, however, that if the com-

Credit of State Must Not Be Impaired

Two bills to aid the Farm Bureau plan of pooling grain for selling passed the house late yesterday without great opposition.

The bills are house bills Nos. 190 and 191. The purpose of the bills, according to Representative Roy Johnson, as told the house, was to permit the waiving of certain requirements under the grain grading act to permit the operation of the pooling plan. The maximum charge for storage of wheat would be increased. It was explained by Representative Sagen that if the pooling should grow to a considerable extent the elevators would become mere storehouses, losing a part of their present revenues, and the increase in the storage maximum, in the discretion of the state inspector, would compensate them for the loss.

Among the other bills passed was one providing for the appointment of a commission of two representatives and one senator to visit the petrified forest in the Bad Lands in Billings county and report to congress on the desirability of the section for a national park. The speaker voted "aye" with the mental reservation that he would name as the house members the two representatives living nearest the section to reduce the necessary expense. The bill carried an appropriation of $500.

Extended Debate.

There was extended debate during the discussion of house bill No. 181 which would extend the time allowed for redemption of mortgages from one to two years. There were two reports, the majority and minority, from the judiciary committee, and the bill was killed.

In discussing the bill Representative Starko declared that it was the opinion of those members of the committee who opposed the bill that the act could not affect mortgages now of record—the real purpose for which the bill was introduced.

"It can affect only future mortgages," he said. "It couldn't reach the people it is intended to help. Who opposed the bill felt that nothing ought to be done which might impair the credit of the state, and make it more difficult then is now for the farmer to obtain money."

Representative Hempel, Nonpartisan, author of the bill, declared he believed it would not affect credit and would bring relief in the future. Speaker Twitchell declared that "if you pass this you will drive half the money out of the state. This bill was killed two years ago in a Nonpartisan caucus because they knew that if it was passed it would drive money out of the state."

The house was in session at one o'clock again today, it being the effort of the house to clean up its large volume of business as rapidly as possible. House bills must be out of the house and into the senate by the end of the fifteenth day of the session, instead of the forty-fifth day, as previously stated.

Disposition of Bills.

The following bills were on third reading and final passage:

H. B. 202—Abolishing the office of school district treasurer, transferring duties to the county treasurer, effective Jan. 1, 1922. Passed, 50 to 60.
H. B. 92—Appropriating $500 for expenses of three legislators to visit sites of proposed Roosevelt National park, and make report to congress. Passed, 78 to 34.

He said he had no patience with the movement to minimize the Irish patriotism during the war.

Youth Has Its Fling!

This Is Lord Ernie's Explanation of Social Revolt

London, Feb. 17.—"Youth will be served," according to the Rt. Hon. Lord Ernie, M. V. O., in commenting in the Nineteenth Century magazine upon the present revolt of English youth against English traditions.

The majority of English girls smoke cigarettes; English girls and boys kiss after a few hours acquaintance; the chaperon is out of fashion; social manners are in decay; youths and maidens laugh at their parents and elders. So states Lord Ernie.

But—"War has offered us new models of character, new types of heroes and heroines, new patterns of combined and associated efforts."

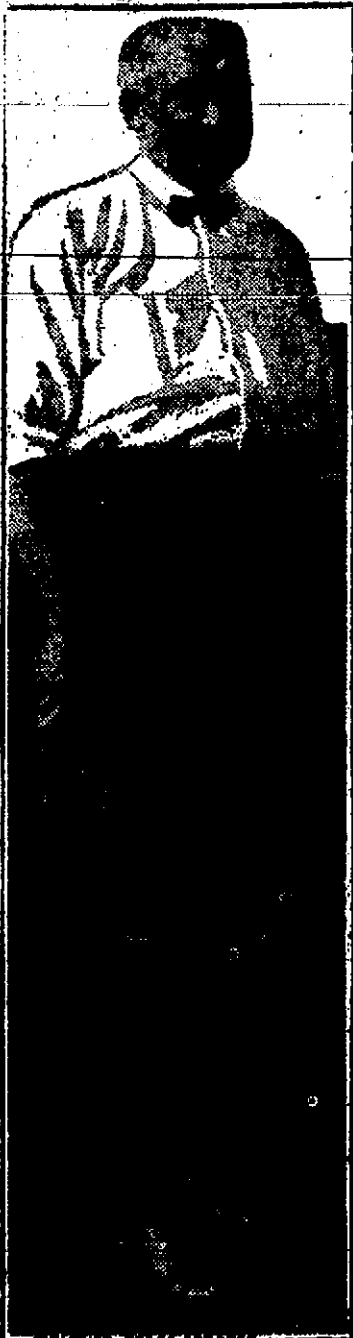

What if the girls of the new era have "dropped cigarette ends, littered our floors, burnt holes in our carpets, blistered our tables, scarred our mantelpieces?" Youth is "over-eating after six years of starving." Everything will come out in the wash.

It is better to smoke cigarettes before everyone, he says, than to go into hiding—if you actually like to smoke cigarettes.

In fine, he points out, the new era belongs to the young. When the present generation of youths reach maturity and old age it, too, will be horrified at the revolt of youth.

Telling Things Everyone Should Know About Perfect Printing

BELIEVE us when we say that we are better equipped than ever before to give each and every individual order for printing the neatness it requires.

Because every sheet of paper we print is bound to be printed perfectly by our Automatic Air Pressure Feeders, and you will never find a crooked or imperfect printed sheet of paper that always happens with hand fed sheets. If a sheet of paper is slow in traveling to the Gauge Pins for perfect printing and it fails to reach its correct destination, right away a warning is sent out from the Automatic which rings a bell so the machine tender knows something is wrong and needs his attention.

Pride and neatness in printing are what everyone wants and when we complete your order for printing you can be satisfied that full count and perfect printing is placed in your order.

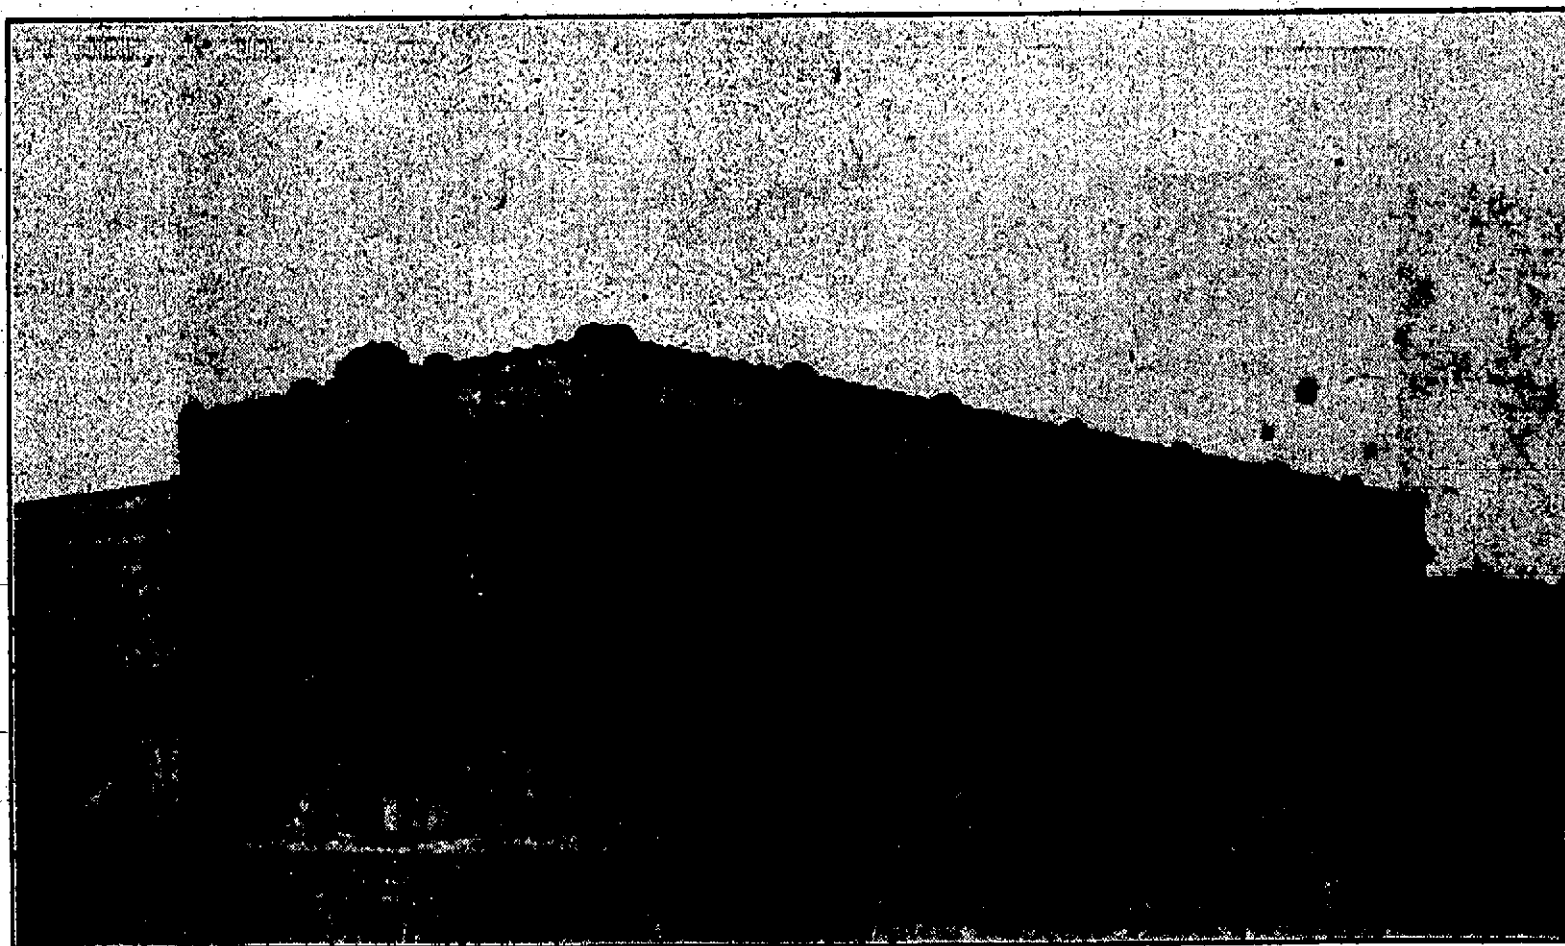

There is no sheet of paper too small or too large for us to print.

When you are in the market for Letter Heads, Statements, Envelopes, Cards, Hand Bills, or in fact any kind of printing, communicate with us and our representative will call.

Remember our Bookbinding department is equipped to do any kind of special ruled sheets or manufacture any kind of Blank Books.

With all the added improvements in the latest Automatic machinery which we have installed, places us more than ever in position to reduce our costs considerable on all classes of Printing. Automatic Feeders enable us to do all classes of color work more accurately than ever, for when more than one color is to be printed on the same sheet of paper or in fact where the color is to be struck in connection with the main printed object our Automatic Feeders do the work with exact keenness as there is absolutely no way for the sheet to be printed imperfect.

When you are in the market for printing whether it is for one color or a dozen colors for the same job, take the proposition up with us and we will be pleased to follow your idea or make suggestions.

FOR LINCOLN PARK

Indiana Senator Urges State Purchase Farm

BY HAROLD VANORMAN,
State Senator of Indiana.

Abraham Lincoln is one of the few saints in the American calendar.

Under Providence he saved the union.

The world now knows that Lincoln was a man of sorrows.

His sad eyes were indeed the windows of his soul, but sorrow only ripened his character and enabled his life.

As long as America cherishes the memory of Lincoln and treasures in its heart the deep and wise lessons of his career, our country cannot go far astray.

It will continue to lead the world.

The life Lincoln gave has become a rich heritage to all the citizens of the United States.

It will be an inspiration to generations still unborn, a lamp to guide the feet of lovers of liberty everywhere, and a growing influence for peace with honor between nations, for a more enlightened justice and for the universal reign of liberty regulated by law.

Therefore it is most fitting and appropriate, out of respect to his hallowed memory, that the Indiana senate encourage making a suitable memorial of Lincoln's boyhood home in this state.

"BOOK RESERVE" OF STATE BANK IS UNDER FIRE

"ing reserve," replied Thatcher, referring to testimony in the senate committee that the reserve banks were $2,000,000 short of the necessary reserve.

Thatcher, declaring he simply made computation as asked by the committee on the basis of the bank examiner's report, admitted that in his computations he included the deposits in closed banks. Mr. Murphy then read an answer given in the senate to the effect that the witness said his computation as to reserve was "literally true."

Thatcher maintained he simply made the computations asked for and was not responsible for any impression conveyed.

Thatcher Called.
Then Mr. Thatcher was called. Mr. Murphy, after questioning the witness for a few minutes, during which time Mr. Murphy complained of the replies of the witness, which he called arguing instead of answering.

Mr. Murphy finally told the witness that he wanted frankly to show that the witness had been very friendly to the Nonpartisan league leaders. This was after the witness said that he was a chartered accountant in Minnesota but was not a certified accountant and declared that he didn't want an impression to go out that he was in disrepute in his profession, because he asserted he was not.

The witness said he began doing work for the Equity Co-operative Exchange in 1915 and that he had done for his firm, the Equitable Audit company had done, auditing work for the Nonpartisan league or leaders, that he knew Townley, knew Wm. Lemke very well and that he had been making the audit of the state industries for the Industrial Commission.

Homebuilders Audit.
Mr. Murphy elicited the information that the Equitable Audit company had absorbed the Accounting Supply company Jan. 1, 1921 and that Thatcher was a part owner before absorption. The attention of the witness was called to items appearing in the Bishop, Brisman and company report on the Home Builders showed $1,375.18 for work on books and in installing system of accounting paid to the Equitable Audit company and that $2,718.94 had been paid the Accounting Supply company for supplies.

"So your company, which was auditing the books of the Home Builders at the same time sold the Home Builders' supplies?" the witness was asked.

Thatcher insisted that the business was taken at a loss and only after R. B. Blakemore, manager, had insisted that he should because his company had prescribed the forms.

During a tilt between Murphy and Thatcher, during which the attorney complained of the failure of the witness to answer questions directly and Thatcher declared that he wanted to be very careful in his testimony, Thatcher said he had to "protect myself from the press."

Mr. Murphy suggested the reporters leave the room, and laughter from the crowd followed.

F. W. Cathro was the first witness called. He was questioned further about the draft for $200 drawn by J. J. Hastings, while in Chicago, presumably to sell bonds, the draft being drawn through the Oberon bank on the Bank of North Dakota.

Mr. Cathro further indicated his position that J. R. Waters, former manager of the Bank of North Dakota, handled the transaction, or was responsible for it. He produced the original draft, as requested by attorneys.

Mr. Sullivan called attention to the fact that the debit slip was dated Feb. 11, 1920, while the draft itself was dated Feb. 13, 1920.

"Apparently the debit slip was made two days before the draft was drawn," remarked Mr. Sullivan. Cathro said that he had not noticed the discrepancy before he brought the record to the court house.

"Looks like a post-dated draft," remarked Cathro.

The name of J. J. Hastings to whom the money went was not mentioned in the draft, said Mr. Sullivan.

Buildings not entirely destroyed are being restored while owners of wrecked homes are building little houses from debris.

Arras has increased in population from a pre-war total of 25,000 to more than 41,500, and Bethune from 15,000 to 25,000. Lens, however, only has 9,000 of its pre-war 31,800.

MINUS RESERVE CONSIDERED BY SENATE PROBERS

Sinkler Reiterates Charge That Banks Could Not Operate
Under 1915 Law

THATCHER GIVES FIGURES

Gives Percentage of Reserve
Below Legal Requirements of Bank List

The question of minus reserve was again under consideration by the senate investigation committee yesterday afternoon.

M. W. Thatcher, accountant, testified that of three banks examined by P. E. Halderson, deputy state bank examiner, in September of 1919, at the same time the Scandinavian-American bank was examined and was said to have a minus reserve also had a minus reserve, but that Mr. Halderson failed to mention it because of the custom in not following strictly the law of 1915 in the case of the other two banks but did in his report on the Scandinavian-American bank.

Could Not Operate.
Attorney Ed. Sinkler reiterated the statement that under a strict construction of the law as used by Attorneys Murphy and Sullivan in arriving at the minus balance of the Scandinavian-American bank it would have been impossible for any state bank to function as reserve depositaries and that it would have discriminated in favor of the national banks whose reserve requirements were not as high as the state banks.

Mr. Thatcher gave figures which he had compiled from the records of the bank examiner office for the state banks of the state as of December 31, 1920. The figures were:

Cash reserve, 59.4 per cent short.
Cash on hand, $2,847,000.
Short required cash on hand, $4,138,000.

During the year, he stated that the deposits had decreased $27,000,000; the bills payable had increased $14,250,000; the amount of minus reserve had decreased $9,303,000, and that the reserve had decreased about 50 per cent, or about $11,250,000.

Reads List.
This he attributed to the fact the people were living to a certain extent upon their surplus.

He read a list of 25 banks taken at random and only one of the banks had the required legal reserve. The per cent below the requirements were as follows, the figures meaning per centages: 26, 2, 62, 50, 41, 47, 30, 77, 43, 71, 34, 83, 25, 89, 19, 03, 53, 26, 7, 31, 34, 61, 33, 39, 25, 68.

L. H. Walker of Yucca was called to the stand to explain the loan of $35,000 which he made from the Bank of Oliver county and which was rediscounted by the state bank. He testified that he had made his application for a farm loan and that this was only to have been temporary but the state bank because of the financial conditions preferred to carry this loan rather than to give him the land loan of $8,000. He testified that he owned 500 acres, which was mortgaged for $3,200 and 40 head of cattle, horses and machinery, all unencumbered.

Took Out Policy.
The so-called state note for $1,710 was next considered. The maker of the note was Hans Waro, who rents the farm of L. L. Stair, warden of the state penitentiary. It is secured by a chattel mortgage on stock and equipment and is guaranteed by Mr. Stair and the State bank at Newbury.

"Did you think this a good note," Attorney Sinkler asked him.

"I figured that it was good if he lived and I made him take out a $2,000 life insurance policy to protect us if he died."

The audience broke out into laughter and Attorney Sinkler suggested that he was too good a financier to be warden.

Reads Letter.
He testified that he did not owe the Bank of North Dakota any other money.

To answer a letter read to the house committee from A. E. Snyder, former transit manager of the state bank, in which Mr. Cathro was severely criticized and called a "hog," Attorney Sinkler read a letter signed of date by April 30, 1920, expressing pleasure at having been able to work with Mr. Cathro and commending his management.

Clean the Contacts.
"If the self-starter does not operate it may be due to corroded battery terminals. The connections of the battery should be loosened and cleaned occasionally to get a good, clean contact."

CERTAINTY OF PENALTY TRUE CRIME CHECK

Raymond Fosdick Calls for Reforming Police and Politics

By E. M. Thiery.
New York, Feb. 18.—Certainty of punishment, rather than severity of it, is the cure for crime, says Raymond Fosdick, police and criminology expert.

Fosdick's opinions carry weight because of several years' study of police systems of America and Europe and the causes, prevention and cure of crime.

"The causes of crime are interwoven with its prevention and cure," said Fosdick.

"Cure means two tremendous reforms: a complete making over of our criminal court system, and the absolute divorce of police from politics."

"These reforms cannot be accomplished speedily. It must be a slow process of education."

"I read every few days of legislatures considering the passage of laws increasing the penalty for crimes."

"That doesn't mean anything. We do not check crime while punishment remains uncertain."

Certain Penalty.
"It is better to make a 20-year penalty certain, or even a 10-year sentence than to have a 40-year penalty that is never inflicted."

A jury would be all the more hesitant to convict a man if the sentence was fixed at 40 years than it would be if the penalty were 20 years."

Mixed population in America is hampered by Fosdick as one of the big causes of crime.

He calls the London and Paris police departments far more efficient than American forces, but says this is largely due to the homogeneity of population there.

"Causes of Crime," Fosdick says, "include these three big divisions: poverty—or, more properly speaking, economic maladjustment—drugs and liquor."

War Is Cause of Crime.
"The war must be listed among the causes of recent increase in crime. It was the same after the Civil War, after the Napoleonic wars and after the Thirty Years' War. A crime wave after the Civil War lasted three years."

"There is no doubt that we have had a crime wave, both in the volume and spectacularity of crimes."

"There is as much room for crime prevention in our communities as for fire prevention or the prevention of disease. But we will never get far so long as politics hamper police efficiency."

SUIT IF FILED FOR TAX MONEY

A suit to recover $1,893.49 from the Wells County bank, alleged to be due as taxes, has been filed by Wells county, at the instance of George E. Wallace, state tax commissioner, who is attorney for the county in the matter.

The complaint alleges that during the years 1916, 1918 and 1919 wrongful deductions of property, real and in value of the capital stock of the bank, were made to the extent of $33,897.90 by the bank. The tax commissioner says other similar suits may follow.

Here Is a Fine Laxative For a Little Baby

Millions of Mothers find Dr. Caldwell's
Syrup Pepsin safe for infants

WHAT young mother has not often asked herself the question, "What is the best thing I can give my baby for constipation?" It is a very important question, as constipation is the basis of most ills of infancy and childhood.

Give half a teaspoonful of a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. You can obtain it at any drug store under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a mild, gentle medicine that children willingly take, and a bottle that costs only sixty cents is enough to last an average family several months.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been used by millions of mothers, for the prescription has been sold in drug stores for thirty years. It is the same prescription Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who is now in his 82nd year, used in his extensive practice for half a century. It is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Last year eight million bottles were bought in drug stores. You can make no mistake in giving Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to your baby.

NO FAKE COWBOYS

FOR HARRY CAREY
One of the popular features of a Harry Carey picture is the star's own flying squadron of rough riders. These sons of the plains are of the aristocracy of cowpunchers. Harry Carey has gathered these broncho-busters one by one until now he has over thirty bronzed, bow-legged daredevils on his ranch at San Francisco Canyon, all ready and willing to ride anything that has a back.

In every story in which Harry Carey appears there is always an opportunity to use his rough riders, and these reckless cowboys are almost as familiar to theater-goers throughout the world as Harry's favorite horse, "Dynamite," whom he uses in most of his pictures.

In "Sundown Slim," Harry Carey's latest story of Arizona, which will be shown at the Orpheum theater tonight, this flying squadron has an unusual opportunity to display itself. One of the scenes in the story shows a roundup of a herd of cattle and the cowboys are able to display all their fancy stunts learned in years on western ranches, and practiced since then in scores of pictures.

Freckles and His Friends

It Looked That Way To Tagalong!

By Blosser

WITH THE FUNNY MEN

A Vocalist Provoked.

"I knew there was going to be trouble as soon as the mule heard the honk of our new flivver," remarked Farmer Cornstossel, ruefully.

"How did it affect the mule?"

"Threw him into a fit of professional jealousy so violent that he backed up and kicked the rear transmission clear through the radiator."

Getting Them Placed.

"You seem to be going on the theory that the audience doesn't know anything," protested the confidential friend.

"This audience," replied Senator Scoggin, "isn't supposed to do the knowing. It is supposed to do the yessing."

A Hard Spot.

"I don't see why your garage men can't be cheerful and pleasant when folks come into your place to do business with you," said the automobile owner.

"Mister," replied the garage employee, "I guess you never worked in a garage."

Queer Attitude.

"His argument does not leave his opponent a leg to stand on."

"That's odd. Why would he want a leg to stand on when it is all head work?"

Folled.

"I hear Pete married a girl who is quite an embroidery expert."

"And he always declared he would never marry any kind of designing female."

The Wisdom of George.

"Do you believe George Washington never told a lie?"

"Well, he didn't after he married the widow anyhow; he knew he'd never get away with it."—Boston Transcript.

Expectations.

"Mr. Wampum, five years ago I did you out of $10—I hope you don't feel resentful."

"Not at all. How much are you going to do me for this time?"

They All Do.

"I've just been told that I'm not doing the right thing by my family."

"Who dared to say such a thing to you?"

"A life insurance agent."

A BUSINESS MAN.

"How much do you usually get for marrying people?"

"Five dollars."

"Anything off for cash?"

Avoided Mistakes.

There was a man who feared the show that trivial error makes. He never did a thing, and so avoided all mistakes.

Certain Ways.

"What are some of the quickest ways you know of to get up in the world?"

"Get a job with an aviator or hit a mule on the off hind leg."

Difference in Common.

"It's surprising how well they get along together. I don't think they would have much in common."

"Oh, yes, they both dislike the same things."—Cartoonist Magazine.

At the Photo Studio.

"Mr. Peters—This photograph doesn't look at all like my wife."

"Photographer—No, I know that, because Mrs. Peters is so very well pleased with it."

Its Requirements.

"There is one queer thing about the axle stage."

"What is that?"

"That a speaking face in an actor fits him for the silent drama."

Good Advice.

"Revenge is sweet."

"I know that, but nobody ever made much success of himself who wanted a lot of time trying to get even with somebody else."

The Cause of It.

"What a dreadfully rapping voice, Smith has!"

"I guess that comes from his going to his dentist and having his teeth filed."

Different Animal.

Miss Burden—I overheard that dear young man telling you I danced like a waltzer.

Miss Bright—Zephyr? He said "I did."

"EASY TO MAKE MILLION," SAYS GRIFFITH

D. W. GRIFFITH

All It Takes is Work and Financial Backing—He Made His Work, work, and work some more! Get money in back of your work. Then you'll make a million a year. That's what David Wark Griffith says. He makes a million a year. He is the greatest movie director in the world.

Money talks to Griffith, and for him it says:

"There is only one way to make any business a success. Get money and lots of it. You can get all the money you want, if the public knows you, believes in you.

"Give the public what it wants. It may be a dish strainer or potato knife. If you produce what folks want you can make a million a year. Your field is the world. Human nature is the same everywhere."

Interests Well Served.

Wall Street is interested in pictures and in Griffith. He read "Way Down East" last summer. The public has been satisfied with the stage production 20 years. Why wouldn't a newer generation be satisfied with the film version?

He started the production—then visited Wall Street. He organized a stock company. A brokerage firm took all the preferred stock. He retained all the common.

The public bought $1,500,000 of the preferred stock at $15 a share.

In less than three months "Way Down East" earned more than two million. Its returns almost amount to three million dollars now. This with less than 20 "copies" distributed.

Requests for bookings from South Africa, India, England and Russia clutter Griffith's desk.

Turning Over Profits.

The production cost $52,000. The public pays "regular show" prices to see it.

Griffith's earnings are going into new films, one of which, "Dream Street," is now under way.

"The Birth of a Nation" was his first big hit. It cost $300,000 and made Griffith a net profit of $2,600,000.

He now has a "million dollar studio." It is the former Flazler home, at Mamaronck, N. Y.

Griffith is under 50 and single. He is called "the Shakespeare of the movies."

His works have been "published" in almost every corner of the world in a few years.

And Bill's works didn't get to China until he had been long dead.

Sure money talks.

FANS PAY FREIGHT

Wild-cattin' in baseball and boxing is comparatively new stuff. It's played the same. It works the same. It gets the money from the same source.

High prices for diamond stars and big purses for boxers are taken from the public's pocketbook.

The managers and promoters put up the money today.

You pay it back tomorrow—plus interest.

It's the interest they are gambling on.

For instance McGraw wasn't figuring on diluting his wallet to the extent of $300,000 when he offered to buy Hornsby for that.

McGraw only planned to float a temporary loan now and let the fans pay it all back plus more next summer.

Tex Rickard doesn't figure on paying Dempsey and Carpenter a half million out of his own bank account.

He merely wants to float a loan on the public now and let the suckers pay it all back plus more next summer.

High prices for ball players and big purses for boxers listen big.

But the real noise comes from jingling the fans' jack.

Fifty-five per cent of all kinds of automobiles built in the United States are of the six-cylinder variety.

GIVES SANDLOT BODY CREDIT

FROM SANDLOT TO BIG LEAGUE

Big Amateur Organization Busy Turning Out More "Uhes"

By Dean Snyder.

Cleveland, Feb. 17.—Pitcher George Uhle is due for a big year.

He's ripe to win a regular place on the World Champion Indian's hurling staff.

For two years he's been used mostly as a relief pitcher.

"Watch my smoke," says Uhle.

"Watch Uhle travel," says Jim Dunn, his boss.

Uhle occupies a place in baseball that is unparalleled.

He's the brightest testimonial the sandlot game has at present.

Jumping from the Cleveland sandlots to big league baseball at one stride is his speed.

Uhle gives the National Baseball Federation—recognized governing sandlot body of the U. S.—chief credit.

The sandlot body is making more big leaguers every year," says Uhle.

Men at the head of it have kept it clean and they give players something to shoot at.

Big Step.

"I found the step up to the Indians from the sandlots pretty big. It takes more than an arm and a lot of smoke to get by with the big fellows.

"I used to throw a knuckle ball successfully on the sandlots. When I broke in with the Indians I cut it out. It's hard to cover up. If you telegraph your ball the big leaguers swat it."

"Never fooled with the splitter. Glad of it now."

"Another reason why I think I'll have a big year is that I'm married."

Sandlot Champ.

Uhle pitched the Standard Parts team of Cleveland to the world sandlot championship practically single-handed in 1918.

The Indians picked him off the next year.

The sandlot organization which developed Uhle is graduating more players direct to the big circuits every year.

It was organized in 1915. The first year it drew 115,000 people to one championship game—the biggest crowd that ever gathered at a single athletic contest in the United States.

There are over 100,000 youngsters listed in the associations affiliated with the N. B. F.

SPORTS VS LAWS

Nations forget hate and begin to admire when they see other nations' great athletes or great athletes.

This is the gist of a statement made by Princess Elizabeth Bibesco, only daughter of Herbert Asquith and the wife of the newly-arrived Rumanian minister to the United States.

She believes Carpenter accomplished a bigger feat of promoting international esteem when he knocked out Beckett than any diplomat ever was able to do.

"Fellers do not quarrel over art and sport," says the princess.

"They admire and enthuse over ability and skill."

"When nations begin playing games together they'll become chums."

Who will say that the princess isn't right?

Business is on the Upturn

Business in America is getting its stride again.

It is going to set a steady pace it can keep. Swing along with it, the best is yet to come.

Recent months have marked a return to normal habits and wholesome standards. Business houses are in training to conserve strength and build up vital powers on a better, broader basis.

Prices have reached or are reaching stable levels.

Goods and services no longer sell themselves. They must be sold.

Good salesmanship is the order of the day. It is a help-the-buyer kind. It puts Service on a par with Profit. Its aim is to attract buyers by making buying attractive.

Merchants and all sellers are not merely getting business, they are building it on foundations of integrity.

Just recently the president of a national business spent thousands of dollars to apologize to the public for misstatements in advertising published in hundreds of newspapers by his company.

He said policies of truth-telling and fair-treatment must be maintained by his company at any cost because he valued the confidence of the public and the good will of his business too much to have it impaired by wrong practices.

Legitimate business believes in "playing fair" and "dealing square". It aims to safeguard the interests of the purchaser in all transactions.

With the spirit of Service as a guiding force, business is worthy of your faith on which its activity relies. There is the nub of the whole matter.

American security lies not only in our mines, forests, factories, and farms but also in the work of our hands and the confidence in our hearts.

Let us turn these to constructive purposes and enjoy a wholesome measure of Prosperity.

Rheumatism A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It

In the Spring of 1893 I was attacked by muscular and inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with rheumatism, some of them 20 to 30 years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent. Simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-sought-for means of getting rid of your rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.
